C-Reading

(10 Marks)

Read the text then answer the questions :

The Food Pyramid shows everything that your body requires. It consists of six food groups and these provide all the 50 basic nutrients that are necessary for good health. It's also properly balanced: we need less of the group at the top, more of the ones in the middle and even more of those at the bottom .When the Food Pyramid gives a number of portions, this is the daily quantity necessary for health. A portion here means, for example, one egg, 30 grams of meat or a vegetable like spinach or a bowl of rice or yogurt. And, for example, the average person needs three portions of fruit per day. Remember! Your body needs calcium so that it will grow strong bones. Your body needs carbohydrates in order to produce quick energy. Your stomach needs fibre so that it can work well. Your body needs protein to grow and to develop strength. Your body needs vitamins in order to work well and to grow.
